

A PATCHWORK FAMILY

CENTRAL EUROPEAN NATIONS
IN THE AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN
MONARCHY

Roundtable Discussions

4-5 October 2018

CEREMONIAL HALL, HUNGARIAN NATIONAL MUSEUM, BUDAPEST

We are pleased to announce the conference titled 'A Patchwork Family – Central European Nations in the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy' which will be held in the Hungarian National Museum. The upcoming conference will be dedicated to the national practices of historical memorialization regarding Austria-Hungary. Our aim is to present the different ways national historiographies of the successor states have evaluated the period of the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy.

The conference provides an ideal academic platform for roundtable discussions. These seek to confront opinions of various historians from today's nation states regarding social and cultural issues and international politics, capitalizing on the achievements and methodology of the past decades (e.g. the cultural turn). The discussions feature expert contributors from successor states and other European countries, yet they are also aimed at the general public, rather than an exclusively academic audience. Their goal is to make the results of recent academic research accessible for everyone.

If you wish to participate in the conference, please register through the following link until 1 October 2018:
